Nauticat 33 pilot house type sailing ketch built in Finland in 1993 by Sitala Yachts and designed by W. Aarnipal. Hull epoxy coated with copper coat. She is equipped with a 90hp Ford Sabre 4 cylinder fresh water cooled, diesel engine which gives her an approximate cruising speed of six knots and a bow thruster which can be controlled from both helms for easier handling.

Accommodation for six in two cabins plus the dinette consisting of two double and two single berths. The interior is finished with varnished teak joinery and white/grey upholstery. Eberspacher cabin heating throughout the boat (which does require a service). An extensive cruising inventory includes dinghy and outboard, life raft, good electronics package, cabin heating etc.

Plenty of space on the teak deck to lay out in the sun, and a great interior space with plenty of head room and interior steering for those wetter days.
