Accommodation

As you enter the saloon via the large sliding doors you have the galley on the starboard side, here you have a sink and a space for a removable gas stove as well as a space for kettle. The pilots seat located forward of the galley also moves upwards allowing for more useful space.

To the portside you have the saloon, here you have space to comfortably fit 4 people around a large table, with the potential to seat 6. The table can also lower into a double berth with the help of an infill. The portside bench seat is reversible meaning it can be made into a co-pilot seat allowing you to face forward when underway or used at the table.

The most forward part of the boat you will see a double berth allowing for two people to comfortably sleep with the help of a triangular infill cushion which sweetly fits into a space close to the head, this allows for extra room within the cabin. The head located forward of the helm hosts an excellent amount of space and has a marine toilet with holding tank.

The bright, open feel of the Merry Fisher 695 is iconic and favourable with many customers, there is no feel of crampedness and it comfortably allows you to relax in any time of the year.
