Accommodation

The interior space is accessed via the large sliding perspex, beveled hatch which allows light in even when closed.

Down below there is a counter top on the Port side that houses a fresh water tap with stainless steel bowl, beneath which a 40l refrigerator is situated.

On the starboard side there is a separate compartment that provides privacy for the heads compartment that accommodates the marine toilet which is coupled with a holding tank.

This particular example also comes with the berth conversion kits that gives a hard backed cushion insert to make the V berth a large to provide a good sized sleeping area. This space is well ventilated as you have the opening forward facing porthole, this combined with the large sea vision style portholes make some a light and ventilated space.
