Remarks :

Williams Jet ribs are extremely well known in the luxury yacht industry, the performance that you get from this pocket-size rib is excellent, they are the perfect tender for use with any luxury motor yacht as it is small enough to fit into most motorboats with garages. This Williams 285 is literally brand new despite being a 2009 boat, she has been garage stored since new so there is no discolouration to the tubes at all! The current owner inherited it with his boat but does not use it, he bought a brand new road trailer for it and has had the rib wrapped up and stored in dry storage. The engine was serviced last year and has not done any hours since. If you are looking for one of these exciting ribs then this is the perfect boat, she is a fraction of the cost of a brand new boat but is in like new condition. Don't miss out!
