Remarks :

Misty is an early example of the popular Moody 346, bilge keel version. Designed as a modern replacement from the older Angus Primrose models. They were designed by Bill Dixon, and gave a much sleeker style, huge internal space and excellent sailing performance. Interior fit out was significantly improved, and they became one of the most successful designs for the company.

Her bilge keel's make her very popular, expanding sailing ground and reducing maintenance costs with lift out.

She has a high specification, with plenty of upgrades. She does however require some light TLC below decks to bring her back up to excellent condition. Mostly with some interior varnishing, and replacement cushions in her rear cabin.

Don't let that put you off, because Mist is an extremely well put together vessel with a very large inventory. See further details within the advert, and her photographs.
