History and Construction

Sunseeker are renowned for building quality boats, and this Sunseeker Manhattan 46 is no exception, GRP construction white hull, with white superstructure.

Luxury yacht builder Sunseeker Yachts finds its roots in Poole Power Boats, a small shipyard founded by brothers Robert and John Braithwaite in the county of Dorset on the southern coast of the UK. Renamed Sunseeker Yachts, the motor yacht builder collaborated with racing yacht designer Don Shead, who developed Sunseeker Yachts' signature performance hull. In addition, luxury performance yacht builder Sunseeker adopted innovative propulsion technology such as surface drives and water jets. In the 1980s, luxury yacht builder Sunseeker also began collaborating with renowned yacht interior designer Ken Freivokh to upgrade its yacht interior styling. Luxury yacht builder Sunseeker entered the superyacht market with the launch of its Sunseeker Predator 80 model in the mid-1990s and, in 2001, with the Sunseeker 105.

Accommodation

The accommodation comprises of a double island berth in the forward cabin with En suite heads and shower, then moving aft out of this cabin we have the L shaped galley arrangement along the port side, which is fully equipped with 2 burner electric hob grill and oven, fridge/freezer, microwave oven, Corian worktops with ample storage. Access to the second cabin situated on Starboard. This cabin again has a heads and shower. Continuing aft you can either go up steps to the Saloon or enter to Port the third cabin which is below the saloon flooring currently being used for storage. The Saloon has numerous seating and the wood finish throughout the boat is fantastic. A built-in vacuum system for your cleaning needs, full reverse cycle aircon/heating in all cabins. Sunseeker crockery also available.
