Manufacturer Provided Description

Fun to sail, easy to trailer, and a snap to set up, the Hunter 240 will provide real enjoyment with little effort. The integral water ballast system provides great stability under sail, but also allows for easy trailering with smaller vehicles when emptied. An innovative mast raising system makes rigging and launching an easy exercise. The standard custom trailer will have sailors in and out of the launch slip in minutes. A large cockpit, plenty of storage, and all lines led aft makes sailing simple. Two double berths - plus a workable galley and portable head - make weekending comfortable. Hunter Marine's water-ballasted trailer-ables are comfortable cruisers that are easy to tow because the stability is left in the water, not on the trailer. Whether trailer sailing across the country or just across town, Hunter makes the experience truly easy with a rig that is safe, simple, and fast to set up and take down.

Owner's Comments

"I bought her in 2020 and since then, I recut the dodgers so you could see out of the cockpit, fitted a tiller connection to the outboard for better close quarters handling. I picked up a tiller pilot last year but never finished commissioning it. The galley area looks to be a bespoke one that has a twin burner and sink combined - I never used the burners as the gas was stored under the sink. I have moved over to the motorboat world, hence my reason for selling."

Broker's Comment
